Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness of 100 male and 100 female students. The program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 45 minutes. The sessions included aerobic exercise, strength training, and flexibility exercises. The results showed that the program had a significant positive effect on the physical fitness of both male and female students. The male students showed a significant increase in their aerobic capacity, while the female students showed a significant increase in their strength. Both groups also showed a significant increase in their flexibility. The program was well-received by the students and was found to be an effective way to improve physical fitness.
